Albertsons Companies Mid-Atlantic Division - Proud History And Dedication To Community

The Albertsons Companies, Mid-Atlantic Division, includes ACME Markets, Safeway, Kings Food Markets, and Balducci's Food Lovers Market banners. Combined, the has a total of 301 stores serving communities as far north as Connecticut, as far south as Virginia, and as far east as the Jersey Shore and the Delaware and Maryland coast. In addition, the chain operates in two major cities: Philadelphia and Baltimore, and serves Washington, DC.

ACME

About ACME Markets

For more than 130 years, ACME Markets has had a long and proud history of serving customers in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, New York, Maryland and Connecticut.

ACME Markets can be traced back to 1891, when friends Samuel Robinson and Robert Crawford decided to open a neighborhood grocery store at the intersection of South Philadelphia's Second and Fernon Streets.

In 1917, Robinson and Crawford merged with four other local Philadelphia area grocery chains to form the American Stores Company, or ASCO, as it was known to shoppers. As the grocery industry began to change with the newfound freedom of the family car, American Stores Company decided to create a full-service supermarket in 1937 - ultimately deciding to call the company ACME Markets after the ACME Tea Company which was the largest of the five original companies that became ASCO. Under the ACME Markets banner, the chain prospered, enjoying decades as the largest grocery retailer in the Delaware Valley.

Today, the core values of the company remain the same as envisioned by Robinson and Crawford back in 1891: a selection of quality products at competitive prices, where customers can always rely on friendly service. Over the 130 years that ACME Markets has been in operation, they have remained dedicated to providing our shoppers with the superior grocery experience they've come to expect.

In the years since the retailer first opened its doors,

ACME Markets has grown and expanded to operate 162 stores throughout its native Pennsylvania, as well as serving shoppers in nearby New Jersey, Delaware, New York, Connecticut and Maryland. They continue to offer consumers the freshest products, convenient supermarket locations, and handy additional services – such as ACME Sav-On Pharmacies – all tailored to the specific needs of the neighborhoods we serve.

SAFEWAY

About Safeway

Since the 1920s, Safeway has had a long and proud history of serving customers on the East Coast with stores located in the District of Columbia, Maryland, Virginia and Delaware.

Safeway can be traced back to 1915 when M.B. Skaggs, an ambitious young man in the small Idaho town of American Falls, purchased a tiny grocery store from his father. M.B.'s business strategy, to give his customers value and to expand by keeping a narrow profit margin, proved spectacularly successful. By 1926 he had opened 428 Skaggs stores in 10 states. M.B. almost doubled the size of his business that year when he merged his company with 322 Safeway (formerly Selig) stores and incorporated as Safeway, Inc. Two years later, M.B. listed Safeway on the

New York Stock Exchange.

M.B. did not let the difficulties of the Great Depression dilute his pioneering focus on value for customers. In the 1930s, Safeway introduced produce pricing by the pound, added “sell by” dates on perishables to assure freshness, nutritional labeling and even created some of the first parking lots.

M.B. Skaggs's value vision still drives Safeway, though on a dramatically larger scale. Today, Safeway operates as a banner of Albertsons Companies, operating nearly 900 Safeway stores across the U.S. with 111 located right here in the Mid-Atlantic Division. All of Safeway's stores were founded around the philosophy of offering customers the products they wanted to buy at a fair price, with lots of tender, loving care, and we still open our doors everyday with that in mind.

and economy through the people they hire, causes they care about, and products they source. Kings is passionate about sharing their love of food! Their unique selection serves to inspire the home cook and elevate the everyday since 1936. The banner is committed to locally-grown produce, prime cut meats, the freshest fish, imported cheeses, international products, and chef-prepared foods, offering only the highest quality so customers can entertain and cook with confidence.

About Balducci's Food Lovers Market

What began in 1916 as a small vegetable pushcart in the heart of New York City, Balducci's became, over its 104-year history, America's leading gourmet specialty food shop. Balducci's stores are markets for foodies, by foodies. Balducci's is committed to bring customers the very best in gourmet finds, international delights, and unique flavors. They serve to inspire with locally-grown produce, prime cut meats, fresh fish, imported cheeses, curated products, and chef-prepared foods, guaranteeing only the highest quality so customers can entertain and cook with confidence.

ACME Markets Community Relations

ACME Markets and the ACME Markets Foundation have a strong commitment to the communities they serve and is dedicated to helping its neighbors live better by making a meaningful difference – neighborhood by neighborhood. Through corporate contributions and in-store fundraisers, ACME supports nonprofit organizations whose mission is aligned with its priority areas: hunger, youth & education, and health and nutrition. Through ACME's Nourishing Neighbors program they help to feed their neighbors by providing food and funds to Regional Feeding America Food Banks including Philabundance, Chester County Food Bank, Community Food Bank of New Jersey, Food Bank of South Jersey, Fulfill, Mercer Street Friends, Food Bank of Delaware, Feeding Westchester, Food Bank of Hudson Valley, Connecticut Food Bank, and Maryland Food Bank as well as other local hunger relief organizations. Through ACME's partnership with radio station WMMR and the Preston and Steve Morning Show they participate in Camp Out for Hunger each fall – the nation's largest single location food drive. ACME is also passionate about health and nutrition and has had a long-standing relationship with Alex's Lemonade Stand Foundation for pediatric cancer. Since 2013, ACME has participated in Alex's Lemonade Days, raising more than $1.5M to date. In addition, ACME is the largest corporate donor of Bringing Hope Home, a local organization that provides unexpected amazingsness to local families with cancer through financial and emotional support. Since 2015, ACME has provided more than $1.3M in funding through both corporate contributions and fundraising. Through its partnership with the Philadelphia Eagles, ACME also sponsors the Eagles Autism Foundation's Eagles Autism Challenge annually. Additionally, ACME supports many other organizations of diverse backgrounds including many K-12 schools and youth sports teams with sponsorships and product donations. Lastly, ACME associates give back through the ACME We Care Fund, generously supporting fellow associates who are experiencing financial hardships due to medical emergency, national disasters, etc.

To see and hear more about ACME's work in its communities follow them on social media @acmemarkets on Facebook, Instagram, Twitter and LinkedIn or visit their foundation website at <http://acmemarketsfoundation.org>.

Safeway Community Relations

Safeway and the Safeway Foundation have a strong commitment to the communities they serve and are dedicated to helping their neighbors live better by making a meaningful difference – neighborhood by neighborhood.

Through corporate contributions and in-store fundraisers, Safeway supports nonprofit organizations whose mission is aligned with their priority areas: hunger, cancer treatment and research, people with disabilities, veterans, and youth and education. Each year, Safeway helps feed its neighbors by providing food and funds to Capital Area Food Bank, Maryland Food Bank, and other hunger relief organizations. Providing grants to recipients like the GW Mammovan and the Children's Cancer Foundation, Safeway helps fund cancer research, prevention, early detection, and treatment. We donate to organizations such as the Muscular Dystrophy Association and the Arc of Baltimore, that support people living with intellectual and physical disabilities. Safeway honors the nation's veterans by giving to the U.S. Veterans Initiative, Easter Seals of MD/VA/DC, and other veterans groups. Since 2017, Safeway and the Safeway Foundation have given grants to hundreds of schools in Maryland, Virginia, the District of Columbia, and Delaware. But that's not all. Safeway is where communities come together. They present the annual Feast of Sharing Thanksgiving celebration, which feeds a traditional holiday meal to more than 5,000 neighbors in need. They also sponsor community events and celebrations, connecting with diverse audiences. Safeway stores host community groups that conduct food drive collections and scouts who raise funds through on-site cookie and popcorn sales. The retailer joins together to volunteer, helping to pack boxes at food banks, and presenting ice cream socials to summer campers with special needs. And Safeway employees give back through the Safeway We Care Fund, generously supporting both associates who are expecting financial hardships and community organizations for which they have a passion.

SERVING THE MID-ATLANTIC REGION FOR 130 YEARS!

Jim Perkins Brings Strong Leadership, Steady Hand To Albertsons Companies' Mid-Atlantic Division

IN SEPTEMBER 2020, 39-YEAR INDUSTRY VETERAN JIM PERKINS took the reins of Albertsons Companies' Mid-Atlantic division, which encompasses more than 300 stores under the ACME, Safeway, Kings Food Markets and Balducci's Food Lovers Market. Food World/Food Trade News recently sat down with Perkins to learn more about his role and the business.

Food World/Food Trade News: Can you give us a few highlights of how the team has navigated the last two years?

Perkins: First, I'm extremely proud of everything the team has done to serve our local communities during the pandemic. We've prioritized the safety of our associates and everyone who visits our stores. Our pharmacy business has played a key role in delivering COVID vaccinations, including boosters, to our local community members.

At the same time, we've introduced new offerings and initiatives to serve customers whenever, wherever, and however they want to interact with us. For example, last year we launched FreshPass, our exclusive unlimited grocery delivery service with member-only perks. This has helped us do more for our best customers and attract new ones.

My team and I are here to serve the stores and not the other way around. I don't encourage a top-down approach. The team is empowered to do the right thing for the associates and the right thing for the customer."

FW/FTN: What are your goals in this role?

Perkins: My ambition is to create a culture where associates are energized, excited, motivated and have fun delighting customers. A culture where everyone is celebrated, has equal access to opportunities and resources, and can contribute to their own and the company's success. This includes continuing to further our commitment of giving back to the neighborhoods and communities that we serve. Through our company's foundation and Nourishing Neighbors program as well as our generous shoppers and associates, we are able to help many organizations in the area with hunger relief and other important needs.

FW/FTN: What are some of the specific hurdles that you've faced in this position?

Perkins: When the Mid-Atlantic Division first came together, we knew culture would be critically important to our long-term success. We were integrating cultures that were different and that have proud histories of serving their local communities. ACME has been around for 130 years, and Safeway has been around since the early 1900s. In 2021, we also added Kings Food Markets and Balducci's Food Lovers Market.

Our goal has been to create a family feel. We empower our associates to do their jobs and we work to create an environment where you can have fun and work hard. It has probably gone as smoothly as any major project that I've been involved with in my nearly 40 years in the business.

FW/FTN: Can you tell us more about the Mid-Atlantic Division?

Jim Perkins: The Mid-Atlantic Division has taken the strengths of multiple banners and made them better together, allowing us to do more for our customers. For example, we are optimizing our distribution centers and streamlining work with our suppliers. We have four banners and each has its unique strengths that make the division successful.

FW/FTN: How would you describe your leadership style?

Perkins: My team and I are here to serve the stores and not the other way around. I don't encourage a top-down approach. The team is empowered to do the right thing for the associates and the right thing for the customer.

If I was asked to describe our team in one word, I would say 'energy.' A lot of energy, commitment, results-driven, high achievers and most importantly – one team.

JIM PERKINS BEGAN HIS CAREER WITH ALBERTSONS IN CALIFORNIA in 1982 as a courtesy clerk. He advanced through the company, being named Director of Operations for Albertsons' Florida Division and was first named a vice president of the large retailer in 2000 when he headed the company's operations and marketing effort in Florida. A few years later, he held that same title for the chain's Northern California Division.

In 2010, he joined Giant Food as a regional VP and returned to Albertsons in 2013 when the Boise, ID-based retailer acquired ACME Markets and named Perkins President of the Division. In 2015, Perkins was named Executive VP of the retailer's East Region and a year later he oversaw all operations for Albertsons' West Region.

In June 2017, he returned to ACME as President, and four months later was promoted to supervise operations for both ACME and Safeway's Eastern Division. In September 2020, Perkins was named as President of Albertsons' new Mid-Atlantic Division.

Perkins received his Master of Business Administration and Bachelor of Science, Business Administration, from the University of Phoenix.

Kings Food Markets and Balducci's Food Lovers Markets Are Ready to Thrive

Jim Perkins

Tom Lofland

Jay Habben

Jim Thatcher

IN LATE 2020, ALBERTSONS COMPANIES announced plans to acquire 27 Kings and Balducci's stores. We recently met with the key executives who were either involved with that purchase or are now involved with reshaping parts of that business moving forward. Our panel includes: Jim Perkins, President of Albertsons Companies Mid-Atlantic Division; Tom Lofland, Senior VP-Merchandising and Marketing of ACME; Jim Thatcher, General Manager/VP-Merchandising and Marketing for Kings/Balducci's; and Jay Habben, Merchandising Lead for Kings/Balducci's.

Food World/Food Trade News: Can you provide a timeline and some color on what has taken place since Albertsons Companies acquired Kings and Balducci's?

Jim Perkins: We finalized the purchase on January 25, 2021. We were excited to welcome the banners to the Mid-Atlantic Division. Both organizations have a well-earned reputation for offering quality premium products, friendly service and an elevated customer experience.

Jay Habben: Once the acquisition was final, we had an established plan to quickly convert IT systems, accounting, payroll, front end, DSD, receiving and more.

The team was able to quickly move from operating in a 'dual key' mode working both the new and old system at the same time to full integration. That was a challenge as you can imagine, but they all took it on, tackled it, and achieved it!

Another major milestone was the logistics of getting the stores converted and training our associates on new systems throughout the entire store, including front-end registers/computers/point of sale (POS), handhelds that are used to order, and linking the computers in the office to the computers in receiving. Basically, anything that had a computer chip and plugged into a wall we had to switch out as that store converted so we could continue to seamlessly serve customers.

Jim Thatcher: Fast forward a year later and now all stores have been converted to our in-house systems.

FW/FTN: Now that you have completed the heavy lifting - the systems are in place and the equipment has been replaced - what have you achieved that has proven beneficial?

Tom Lofland: Kings and Balducci's have an exceptional legacy of high-quality products and customer service they have worked hard to build. Through this process, I gained a better understanding of their business and a better understanding of their customers. We have learned from each other, and our Mid-Atlantic customers are enjoying better products and service as a result.

FW/FTN: What parts of the Kings/Balducci's operation - product assortment, merchandising personnel, etc. - did you think was important to retain going forward?

Thatcher: The things that our customers have come to enjoy, we are going to protect - this includes providing the highest quality, best in-market, chef-prepared foods, best-in-class catering, and state-of-the-art cooking studios. We are always going to have that specialized, individual customer-focused service.

From the big picture view, we are also benefitting from the enhancements that come from a larger organization serving the Mid-Atlantic, including the support team in Malvern, PA and from our company as a whole.

FW/FTN: Any other thoughts?

Habben: From the beginning we believed that Kings and Balducci's would be valuable additions to our business in the Mid-Atlantic division. Both have won customer loyalty through their unique offerings in their fresh departments, particularly in the deli where they employ culinary trained and certified chefs. We also have an innovation team in our office that is staffed by culinary trained and certified chefs where we develop recipes that we make in our stores. It is really about being foodies for foodies. This commitment to innovation, we believe, will benefit Safeway, ACME, and our other Mid-Atlantic banners, even as we respect and maintain the heritage of Kings & Balducci's, which we know our customers value.

FW/FTN: Tom, you are the marketing guy. Can you touch on merchandising opportunities? What about the market? What about image?

Lofland: It's a great call-out. When you look at the digital piece there is great potential. In the last year we had to be tactical for a lot of reasons. Anytime you convert systems, convert banners, and rollout computer assisted ordering, it's clear that you first need to execute the fundamentals starting with how to get product from the warehouse to the store, to shelf placement and through the register. As you strengthen those elements, you will be able to dovetail into a more robust digital and e-commerce model.

FW/FTN: Thank you all for participating.

Serving Our Community Together.

Lanaux: Creating A Great Work Environment Where Associates Can Grow And Thrive

Monique Lanaux

Monique Lanaux joined Albertsons Companies Mid-Atlantic division as Vice President of Human Resources a little over a year ago, bringing with her about 20 years of leadership experience in the HR space supporting teams in retail and consumer packaged goods (CPG).

In her current role, a typical day for Lanaux is focused on the broader people agenda for the associates that make up the company's Mid-Atlantic division, which operates stores across eight states.

"We are very focused from a people perspective on talent, culture and capability building. For our teams, it's about creating an inclusive environment and infusing the right talent in our organization, so we reflect the communities we serve," she said.

Developing talent is an ongoing process for any company, and Lanaux and her team approach this challenge head-on. "We really try to work hard to develop our associates, finding ways to help them grow vertically or horizontally in the organization, and creating the right experience to make sure people truly feel like this is a great place to work."

Paramount is creating an environment where everyone feels included and valued and where customers feel the same.

As Lanaux explained, "Our aspiration is to be a company that reflects the rich diversity of the communities we serve. For us, celebrating diversity includes creating a space where everyone feels included and there's a level of belonging. We want associates to have a long career with our company, so we keep that in mind when hiring new talent and in promoting people."

Lanaux and her team work to help associates grow and build strong careers with the company, and do so with an eye on diversity and inclusion. "We like to say, diversity is who we are, it's what we bring to the table. Inclusion is how we behave. So, ultimately, what we want to embody is how we interact with one another, how we impact each other every day, how we operate."

Lanaux explained that, in addressing issues of diversity, equity and inclusion, the company takes a very proactive approach. "One way we ensure we are proactive in this area is to track the leading indicators like creating the right programming and having the right policies in place so that the associates who are with us, and those who join us, understand what we stand for as a company. We spell out very clearly that we are an environment that embraces diversity, equity and inclusion and we have policies that support that. We are committed to doing everything we can to create the right experience for associates from minute one."

The company helps foster diversity and inclusion in many different ways. "We have many associates who have joined resource groups across the company such as Women's Inspiration and Inclusion Network (WIIN), Hispanic Leadership Network, Asian Network, Albertsons African American Leadership Council, and Albertsons Pride Alliance. We started these resource groups to both create space for associates who identify with them, but also for associates who are interested in understanding more."

Another program the company has in place to foster a diverse and inclusive environment is a program known as "Leading with Inclusion," an interactive session that provides associates an opportunity to discuss important topics that help increase awareness and understanding of others.

"What's also exciting is to see how our CEO Vivek Sankaran has embraced diversity within his senior leadership team. For us, that helps really set a good example starting at the top that cascades down."

Maintaining a strong work culture is vital every day, not just during a pandemic, and Lanaux and the Albertsons Companies Mid-Atlantic team do everything they can to ensure that happens. "The most important thing is to understand what your current landscape is and then be intentional in working toward your aspiration. Ultimately, for us, it's about how we create a truly sustainable and conscious culture where all of our associates can thrive."

Albertsons Companies Mid-Atlantic Division Continues Digital Transformation Journey

Tom Lofland*Sherry Caldwell

Tom Lofland, SVP of Merchandising and Marketing, and Sherry Caldwell, Director of Marketing, oversee Albertson Companies' Mid-Atlantic's digital platform, an area of increasing focus for the company as the pandemic changed the way most people shopped for groceries.

Lofland oversees product placement, pricing and promotion across the division along with procurement and marketing for the Mid-Atlantic ACME and Safeway banners and consults on marketing for Kings and Balducci's.

Caldwell has responsibility for the division marketing, specifically messaging, brand positioning, and digital as well as print advertising, media, sports and community partnerships.

As Caldwell puts it, "Our organization is on an incredible digital transformation journey. We're aiming to bring digital shopping and online experiences that delight and inspire shoppers."

One of the biggest changes in the company's digital program in 2021 was the combination of their loyalty club with their mobile shopping app. Explained Caldwell, "One thing as a company we did in 2021 is launch a unified mobile app. Previously, there was an app to be part of our loyalty program, and a separate app to participate in our e-commerce business. All of that rolls up under one mobile app now for both ACME for U and Safeway for U. The Kings and Balducci's banners will be brought on board soon. This change has really helped provide a one-stop shop for customers."

The ACME/Safeway for U loyalty program and FreshPass subscription provide shoppers a seamless omnichannel shopping experience. FreshPass is a $99/year subscription service that offers unlimited e-commerce deliveries on orders $30 or more, 2-hour deliveries, 5 percent off O Organics and Open Nature products, plus extras like Starbucks perks, birthday treats and many different offers that are peppered in throughout the year for subscribers. It's a very good deal for the company's customers, Caldwell explains: "With just a handful of orders, a customer will get back the cost of subscription pretty quickly."

Lofland added "the new offerings exemplify our commitment to innovation and customer service, meeting shoppers where they want to shop whether that be in store, curbside, or at home."

ACME, Safeway Pharmacies - Serving Their Communities During COVID, 'From Day One'

Janis Levit is the Director of Pharmacy Operations for ACME Markets. Starting her career at ACME 22 years ago as a pharmacist, she was promoted to district pharmacy manager, before moving to her current position six years ago. She also has responsibility for the pharmacy operations of the New England-based Shaw's banner of Albertsons Companies.

Amir Masood is the Director of Pharmacy Operations for Mid-Atlantic's Safeway banner. He started with Jewel-Osco as a pharmacy residency preceptor 19 years ago, and continued with the company as a staff pharmacist, pharmacy manager, pharmacy operations specialist and district pharmacy manager before moving into his current post 10 months ago.

Asked to describe a typical day in the life of a director of pharmacy operations, Levit said, "Every day is different. Our main responsibility is to support our stores. I look at our stores as our customers, so the day-to-day can really vary depending on what our store teams need. We do things like assisting with recruiting and training efforts, as well as making sure that our stores are running efficiently."

Janis Levit

Masood added, "We also build relationships, not only with our store personnel and our district pharmacy managers, but with important stakeholders like health departments, physicians' offices and community members."

Not surprisingly, the past 18 months have been very busy for those in the pharmacy industry. We asked Levit and Masood to talk about their teams and how they have handled the extra work the pandemic required.

"Our pharmacy teams have been

serving their communities from day one of the pandemic, without missing a beat," said Levit. "From implementing the right COVID safety protocols to dealing with a remarkable flu season to administering COVID vaccines at the stores and out in the community, the teams have been truly incredible."

Masood added: "I applaud our teams for partnering with community groups to offer vaccine clinics to groups that the CDC considered under-served or with lower vaccination rates. They prioritized these outreach efforts, and it just speaks to the commitment of our pharmacy teams to meet the needs of the communities they serve."

In many cases, the ACME and Safeway pharmacy teams hit the road to reach people who couldn't travel to a pharmacy for their vaccinations.

"We went into different communities that had a need and set up tents in parking lots, or at community fairs or food fairs, anywhere there were people who needed the COVID-19 vaccine." Masood continued, "Our pharmacists have been both educators and vaccinators."

As the pandemic continues, Levit and Masood continue to do everything they can to support the pharmacy teams.

"We make communication with our teams a priority," said Masood. "We listen to the associates to understand their challenges and work as quickly as possible to support the evolving pharmacy needs. Our pharmacy teams have been frontline heroes from day one as they focus on the ever-changing needs of their communities throughout the pandemic. It is our responsibility to provide the resources and support they need to do their job."

Kings, Balducci's Bring Catering, Gift Basket Program To Albertsons Companies Mid-Atlantic Division

Jen Fouts

Jen Fouts, Senior Director of Catering for the Albertsons Companies' Mid-Atlantic division, started her career in events and promotions. Throughout her 20+ years in the hospitality and retail industries, she worked for several restaurant groups and even owned her own shop in Annapolis, Maryland. "I just love planning events and all of the logistics that go with that," said Fouts. "I like the operations side, but I really love the sales and the entertaining, the parties, the events. It all just flowed together and I've been with Kings and Balducci's since June 2017."

Fouts is responsible for the Kings and Balducci's catering programs. "On the sales side of my job, catering is taking the wonderful things that our Chefs and R&D team create and turning them into a solution for our guests. We take all of the guess work out of hosting a successful event."

She continued, "On the execution and operations side, my job is to make sure that when we hit high volume times, our chef and our store teams are able to deliver."

Fouts also has responsibility for the division's Balducci's gift basket program, overseeing retail and online sales for all occasions. The company has a production facility where the baskets are built and shipped out to local stores or directly to customers who order through the website.

Over the years, Balducci's has built loyal customers across the country. Fouts explains, "Balducci's is famous in Manhattan. Folks who grew up in the city and moved to other parts of the country still want to have Balducci's products. We get notes from customers in California or Florida who remember Balducci's. I've seen Balducci's shopping bags in movies and mentioned in television shows. It truly is an iconic brand."

All of the products that are available in the gift baskets are also found on shelves at Balducci's stores. Customers have the option of selecting from an array of pre-made baskets that Fouts and her team create, or they can build their own. Among the selections available are pantry favorites like coffees, pastas, crackers, chocolates, nuts and dried fruits. Balducci's most popular items are also available in subscriptions, including olive oil, chocolates, teas and coffees. Customers can choose between one, three, six or 12-month options for deliveries.

Both Kings and Balducci's offer catering programs. Kings focuses on a chef-led service in Connecticut, New York and New Jersey. They do the same type of business as Balducci's and both brands and banners can execute smaller events like a box lunch for five people, or dinner for four, or larger scale events. "We can plan your wedding and schedule service staff and find your rental equipment. It's soup-to-nuts, five to 5,000 people. We offer all those services."

Both banners have a corporate executive chef and an R&D team developing recipes for their catering program. Additionally, each of the eight Balducci's locations has an executive chef in-store.

"Every Balducci's store also has a catering manager who works with the chef to make sure what we're offering the highest possible quality and service to our guests," explains Fouts.

When asked about what it was like to manage catering during the early part of the pandemic, Fouts said, "There was a lot of adapting. There are multiple segments of the business. There's the social catering for parties and events, the corporate side of the business (traditional office meetings), and then, something we do that not a lot of traditional caterers do: smaller holiday meals geared toward home gatherings."

She continued, "When the pandemic hit and corporate and wedding orders went away, and very few people were hosting parties, we leaned into hosting at-home experiences. For example, our first holiday during the pandemic was Easter and Pass-over and we saw an increase in at-home catering that helped compensate for those office events and social events that didn't happen. We've also done significantly more delivery of these meals than we have in the past. That required a shift in how we operate."

Proud to Be a Partner of Albertsons Companies

Bill Crosby, SVP-Operations: Stores, Services Continue To Adapt To Changing Needs Of Customers

Bill Crosby, SVP-Operations for Albertsons Companies' Mid-Atlantic division, has spent many years in the food industry, going all the way back to his first job in 1982 as a clean-up person in the deli. He joined ACME in 2007 as a Store Director and today oversees operations at more than 300 stores from Connecticut to Virginia.

In recent years, Crosby has helped oversee an extensive store remodel program, updating a large number of stores with a primary focus on fresh and other growing categories as well as the stores' digital and e-commerce spaces. Much of the initial focus of the remodel program was on the stores that ACME acquired from A&P in 2015 and many of the company's Pennsylvania ACME stores that now sell beer and wine.

“We've been proud of how quickly our teams adapted to things like offering customers more e-commerce, delivery, and drive-up-and-go services. No one knows exactly what the future will bring, but we'll continue to work together to adapt our stores and services to meet customer needs.”

Crosby said the program is showing a lot of success, “Customers have received it well and are really happy with the updates. And our associates appreciate the investment in the stores.”

The division recently held ribbon cuttings for two updated stores that it acquired, which are located on Smith Avenue in Baltimore, MD and at the Fairfax City Mall in Northern, VA.

Probably the most amazing feat is the fact that the team opened two new stores during a worldwide pandemic. In August 2020, Safeway opened a new 60,000 square foot Capitol Hill unit in Washington, DC (14th Street SE), which replaced a smaller store on that site that had closed in 2018. The new store anchors a mixed-use project called Beckert's Park. At 10,000 square feet larger than the previous unit, the new store offers more than 3,700 new items, including deli offerings such as poutine, a BBQ sandwich bar, a sushi bar, poke bowls, a specialty cheese shop and a wide selection of grab-and-go meals. The store also features an on-site catering department, a meat department featuring dry-aged and grass-fed beef selections and a seafood section with a raw bar that will maintain a selection of local oysters.

The store also features a meeting room for the community, a full beer, wine, and spirits selection as well as a separate spirits room and walk-in wine cellar. There is more focus on foods-to-go and meal solutions and a wide array of fresh food choices.

In October, ACME Markets opened its newest store in the University City section of Philadelphia. This store also features a wide variety of fresh offerings, including sushi, poke bowls, an Asian hot bar, and a BBQ station – with everything made in-store. In addition to an in-store Starbucks, there is a large beer and wine selection featuring many local craft beer options.

Crosby stayed mum when we asked about future plans for new locations, leaving it at: “We continue to look at opportunities for new stores.”

As SVP-Operations, Crosby is also responsible for the Kings Food Markets and Balducci's units the company acquired at the beginning of 2021. With these acquisitions, the Mid-Atlantic division of Albertsons Cos. now features four iconic brands, each with its own individual personality.

We asked Crosby about the challenges faced and lessons learned during the pandemic, and what he's most proud of. He didn't hesitate to answer saying, “The thing I'm proudest of is our associates. They came to work every day, through whatever was going on in their stores or their personal lives and served our customers. Our job was to keep them safe, everything from plexiglass dividers to sanitation protocols, to COVID testing. We followed CDC guidelines, state and local regulations and requirements. I couldn't be prouder of our team.” Crosby added, “Without our store associates, we don't do business. So, we're here to serve them and support them any way we can. They are always first and foremost in everything.”

Crosby also thanked the vendor community that works with his team: “I want to say thank you to our vendors for the partnership and collaboration. Our vendor partners have truly worked hard to make sure we can continue to serve our customers during the pandemic, and we appreciate that.”

As far as difficulties the company faced during the COVID era, the primary challenge has been the industry-wide challenge of “getting product,” Crosby explained. “Second was making sure we continue to update our COVID protocols in line with the various local regulations. But really, everyone has been just working together, trying to keep everyone safe.”

We asked Crosby if he thinks that the changes made during the COVID era will stay, or whether things will eventually go back to the way they were pre-pandemic. “One thing COVID-19 did for the grocery industry was really speed up advances in digital,” said Crosby. “We've been proud of how quickly our teams adapted to things like offering customers more e-commerce, delivery, and drive-up-and-go services. No one knows exactly what the future will bring, but we'll continue to work together to adapt our stores and services to meet customer needs.”

ACME Markets In The Community

BRINGING HOPE HOME

Each March, ACME Markets Foundation runs the Hope Starts Here Register Campaign which goes to help feed families suffering a cancer diagnosis. In March of 2021 ACME raised $580,961.

NEMOURS CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL

During the month of August, ACME stores in Delaware and select stores in South-eastern Pennsylvania and South Jersey raised money for the Nemours Children's Hospital Foundation. The store teams raised $57,000 to aid in pediatric care.

CARING FOR FRIENDS

To provide traditional Thanksgiving dinners to those in need, Caring For Friends, thanks to donations from ACME and Shady Brook Farms, distributed 800 turkeys to homebound seniors, veterans, those with disabilities and others who might not be able to afford them otherwise. Caring For Friends (CFF) is a volunteer organization providing food and friendship to neighbors in unserved and underserved communities in greater Philadelphia.

ALEX'S LEMONADE STAND FOUNDATION

The ACME Markets Foundation has supported the Alex's Lemonade Stand Foundation for many years now. The organization was started with one lemonade stand, hosted by founder Alexandra "Alex" Scott in her front yard which raised $2,000. Alex was just 4 years old and battling neuroblastoma when she asked to give the money so doctors can find cures for all children battling cancer. The most recent ACME Markets Foundation donation was for $560,000 to help the group's efforts toward changing the lives of children with cancer by funding impactful research, raising awareness, supporting families and empowering everyone to help cure childhood cancer.

Safeway In The Community

SAFEWAY FOUNDATION KICK HUNGER CAMPAIGN

As part of the 4th annual Safeway Foundation KICK HUNGER fundraising campaign, the company donated $455,024 to the Capital Area Food Bank and the Maryland Food Bank. The campaign was conducted throughout the month of March at Safeway stores in Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia.

SCHOOL SPIRIT

Celebrating School Spirit during August, Safeway and the Safeway Foundation raised nearly $300,000 on behalf of 112 K-12 local public schools. Pep rallies were held to kick off the campaign and featured special guests including the Baltimore Ravens and the Washington Football Team, local dignitaries and media partners.

COMFORT CASES

During February 2021, the Safeway Foundation in the Mid-Atlantic Division awarded $137,000 We Care grants to 23 Baltimore-Washington region non-profit organizations, including Comfort Cases, an organization that believes every child deserves to feel a sense of dignity, so they provide children who are in foster care a special bag they can call their very own. Each bag includes a new pair of pajamas, a warm blanket and a stuffed animal to hug during the traumatic transition into foster care. The grants were funded, sponsored and selected by Safeway associates.

CAMPAIGN FOR VETERANS

Safeway Foundation and Safeway stores, continuing their long history of recognizing the enormous sacrifices made by the country's veterans, in 2020 conducted a fundraising campaign in its stores call "Give for those who Give," collecting customer donations at all of its stores in DC, Maryland, Virginia and Delaware, to help fund programs supporting veterans as they gain access to civilian employment; providing access to health care and support groups for veterans and their families; and supporting families of fallen heroes.

Kings Food Markets In The Community

MEND

Kings Food Markets supports MEND NJ, an interfaith network of more than 20 member food pantries and community partners located throughout Essex County, NJ. The hunger relief network, the largest in Essex County, has been providing food to individuals and families in need since 1980. In addition to financial donations, Kings has supported MEND through donations of shelf-stable and fresh foods.

GROW IT GREEN

The Kings Food Markets banner donated $25,000 to Grow It Green Morristown, an organization that creates sustainable farms and gardens, and educates communities on healthy eating and environmental stewardship. All donations stay local to help fight hunger in the community where the donation is made.
